NUMBER 164

By JANE VOILES

Hugh Walpole began his writing career 32 years ago with a novel, "The Wooden Horse," but it was "Fortitude," one of his early books, that won him his wide following in America. Of contemporary English novelists he was the most popular in America. Many of you will remember his "Cathedral" series, his "Herries" series, and the "Jeremy" stories. Critically speaking, his best books were those so-called uncomfortable ones: "Mr. Perrin and Mr. Traill" (a study of hate) and "The Man With Red Hair" (a study in sadism).

"The Blind Man's House," is Walpole's last book as he died about two months ago. This book compares rather curiously with "Rebecca," although it has none of the sinister portents. A bridegroom returns with a youthful second wife to the village of his childhood and there is a housekeeper who has as many good qualities as Danvers, the housekeeper in "Rebecca" had had ones.

The time of this novel is 1938 when the war clouds are beginning to gather. The setting is one of Walpole's "tea-and-crumpet" villages called Garth-in-Roselands. In the village is a friendly, little, old church with a hawthorne window designed by a Franciscan at the time when Franciscans were still wandering about the country.

Julius Cromwell, blinded after the first world war, returns to Garth after his second marriage. His wife Celia, gay, impulsive and immature, is fifteen years younger than he is. As the Cromwells enter Garth the Hawthorne window in the church is both a welcome and a warning. Celia's plucked eyebrows and flame-colored hats antagonize the villagers. Used to being loved and admired the critical attitude of the community makes her unhappy. But Julius wins all hearts unreservedly. He even gains a reputation for seeing farther than those who can see and for knowing instinctively what others are doing and thinking. In the adjustment of Julius and Celia to one another and to the community Walpole found a congenial subject.

The villagers are done in Walpole's best vein. The rectory children are delightful, especially young Simon who has a strain of Jeremy in him. The Junesque Daisy Brennan, the maiden ladies, the misfit Jim Burke and Mrs. Marks whose mellow view of life is typically Walpolean are as real as the folks next door but being Walpole characters, they indulge in their characteristic weakness, a penchant for self-revelation which is not always to the best interests of the story. In these self-revelations, Walpole can't resist the temptation to do a little preaching. Unfortunately he never quite learned how to transmute his preaching into art.

You may if you choose, read into "The Blind Man's House" a symbolic expression of Walpole's belief in the interdependency of human beings. War was threatening that world of Walpole which stood for peace, comradeship, reassurance and gentleness of heart. In order to preserve this world, Walpole made a plea for generosity in ideas and in outlook but he forgot to make a plea for the harder, sterner virtues which are, after all, the bulwark of the gracious way of life for which Walpole stood. There is an over-ripeness about "The Blind Man's House." It is like a mellow fruit that has basked too long on some sunny garden wall.

If you are a mystery story fan and if you like your mystery stories written in the breezy language of "The Thin Man," don't overlook "Death and Taxes," by George Dodge. In addition to a first rate mystery that keeps you guessing to the last few pages, it has a San Francisco setting, an episode in Santa Cruz, a cute blonde and a handsome brunette and, at least five cures for sunburn. The book moves with the speed and gaiety of a merry-go-round. Other recommended detective fiction is "Curiosity Killed the Cat," by Anne Rowe all about a deserted bird searching for missing hubby; "The Black Curtain" by Cornell Woolrich, full of hair-raising "horror and suspense;" "The Corpse on the Flying Trapeze" by Igel Morland featuring Scotland Yard's detective, Mrs. Pym.

Miss Elinor Tagmeier was up from Vallejo Sunday, visiting relatives and other friends. Elinor is employed with the P. G. & E. Company, at Vallejo.

Churchill Returns To England And May Talk Over Radio On Tuesday

By JOE ALEX MORRIS
U. P. Foreign News Editor

Prime Minister Winston Churchill took personal command of Great Britain's sweeping program for collaboration with America and Russia against the Axis today as German armies advanced in the Ukraine and toward Leningrad and threats of a new war explosion increased in the Far East.

The Prime Minister returned by way of Iceland on the battleship Prince of Wales after his conferences at sea with President Roosevelt and was expected to make a radio speech probably tomorrow in connection with the rapidly shifting diplomatic and military fronts all over the world.

Outstanding developments included:

1. A German clean-up drive in the Ukraine west of the Dnieper river and a terrific Luftwaffe attack on Russians who, according to Berlin, were trying desperately to evacuate the Black Sea port of Odessa in "another Dunkirk." Moscow said rear-guard and guerilla fighting still was intense in the Ukraine area and that the main Russian forces were being pulled back intact to new lines east of the

Draft Deferment Bill Is Signed

Act Stays Induction Of Men 28 Years Old On Or After July 1, '41

Ray Daniels reported Monday morning, supplying the country's fifteenth selective service quota.

Selective Service headquarters announced that the sixteenth quota for the country is four men, who will report at dates yet to be set, sometime between September 10 and September 30th.

WASHINGTON, (U) — President Roosevelt has signed legislation deferring from military service all men who were 28 years old or older on last July 1, it was announced today.

The draft deferment bill was signed on Saturday. Sometime today the President was expected to sign the bill extending the term of all army men by 18 months. This bill, which passed the house by only one vote, would permit the government to hold selectees, national guardsmen and reservists in service a total of two and one-half years. For regulars, it would mean a term of four and one-half years instead of three years.

The deferment bill provides for automatic annual deferment of men who become 28.

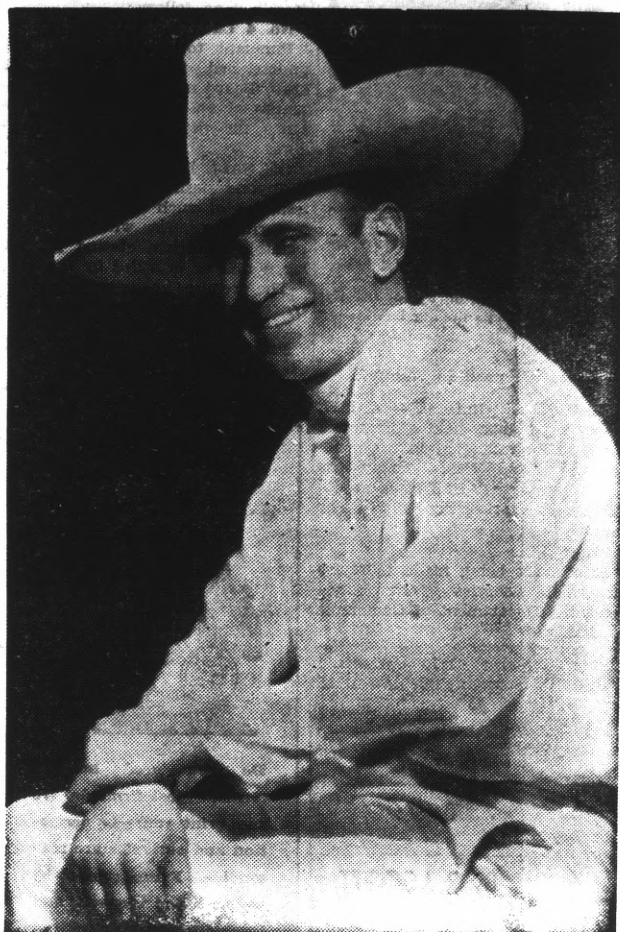

The new law also provides for the secretary of war to dismiss from service selectees who reached 28 or before July 1, 1941. The selectees must apply for such discharge and the secretary is required to dismiss them "as soon as is practicable and when not in conflict with the interests of national defense."

As of June 1, there were 112,000 selectees in service who were 28 or older. The war department has indicated that it proposes to discharge most of these, although some specialists will be held in service. As a matter of practical operation, the discharges will be made gradually.

The act does not provide for discharge of men in service who become 28 after July 1, 1941, or any subsequent date. New legislation would have to be enacted for that purpose.

Those discharged under terms of the act signed today will be transferred to a reserve component of the army for a period of 10 years, and will be liable for future service, if and when it becomes necessary.

COUNTY ASSESSED VALUATION SHOWS $96,481 INCREASE

Taxable Tangible Property Values In State $7,355,500,000 To Reach All-Time High, Board of Equalization Report Shows

SACRAMENTO—Taxable tangible property in California has reached an assessed value of $7,355,500,000.

This is an all-time high for the base to which county, city and district tax rates apply, according to R. E. Collins, chairman of the State Board of Equalization.

The record tax roll, applying real property and improvement, includes both common property, assessed locally, and utility holdings, the assessed value of which is determined by the board.

In El Dorado county, the tangible property subject to local taxation was assessed at $15,717,641 in 1941, as compared with $15,621,160 in 1940. This represented an increase of $96,481, or .62 per cent.

The state-wide list of taxable tangible property increased in value more than $217,000,000, a gain of 3.04 per cent. The common property, assessed locally, gained $195,000,000, or 3.16 per cent, and utility property evaluated by the Board of Equalization, was up $22,000,000, or 2.28 per cent.

"Assuming that local subdivisions could keep expenditures at 1940 levels, the $217,000,000 increase in assessed values would make possible tax reductions in at least 4,000 of the state's 4,574 taxing jurisdictions," Collins said. "Accordingly, the 1941 average tax rate for the state could drop from $4.18 to $4.06 per $100 of assessed valuation."

"It must be pointed out, however, that additions to taxable wealth often mean additions to governmental responsibilities, with an attendant rise in governmental expenditures," Collins added. "Other factors, such as price and wage increases, will make it difficult for some subdivisions to pass along to their taxpayers the benefit of the substantial increase in the tax base. If no changes in tax rates are made either, up or down, the added valuation will produce an increase in revenue to local governments in excess of $9,000,000."

Board records show that the common property roll constitutes six-sevenths of the 1941 tax base. An analysis of this roll reveals that land values declined in 35 of the 58 counties, the state as a whole reporting a 2.09 decrease. The opposite was true of improvements, which increased in every county but one, the aggregate increase amounting to 6.31 per cent.

Placerville Lumber Nine Wins Foothill League Pennant

El Dorado County had the Foothill baseball league pennant Monday, thanks to the Placerville Lumber Company, at Fresh Pond, whose "Outlaws" won the championship play-off Sunday afternoon at Marcus P. Bennett, Jr., Memorial Park. The championship game was between the Auburn Braves and the Outlaws, and Auburn just wasn't in the picture. The score was 20 to 6. Harvey West, of the Placerville

Lumber Company management, entertained both clubs, Auburn and the Outlaws, at a chicken dinner at Hotel Raffles following the game in a demonstration of appreciation. An informal program paid appropriate recognition to the good work of the Outlaw players.

The Braves had won the first half of the league schedule and the Outlaws qualified for the playoff by winning the second half.

DILLINGER 25 YEARS IN BUSINESS LAST SATURDAY

H. E. Dillinger is the newest recruit to the Quarter Century Club of Placerville business men.

Saturday last marked the completion of twenty-five years in the home furnishings business of "Dillingers."

"Of course, we're really older than in the home furnishings business," Mr. Dillinger explained, "because we bought the business which had been established twenty years earlier by C. P. Winchell."

"Yes, in the same location," he concluded.

Nevadan's Car Leaves Road As He Dozes At Wheel

Eastbound on U. S. 50 east of Camino Sunday evening, Jack Rice, of Sparks, Nevada, fell asleep at the wheel of his car and the machine ran off the road. The state highway patrol report indicates that Rice escaped serious injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kling and daughter, Robin, were here during the weekend from Berkeley visiting Mrs. Kling's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Y. Gray, preparatory to moving to Crescent City, where Mr. Kling will be employed as a school teacher.

CURTAIN FALLS ON SOFTBALL FOR SEASON

Playoffs Tonight, With Three Games On Schedule; Caldor Girls Winners

Another season of softball play-offs on schedule. Probably the feature game of the night will be the battle between Pacific Service, in the A Division, and the Forest Service, in the B Division.

There won't be any league honors to be decided in this game, which will be the third game of the night, but it is supposed to decide once and for all which of the two is the best team this year.

It is reported that the rivalry springs from the circumstance that at mid-season the Pacific Services transferred from the B Division to the A Division, and the Forest Service is out to prove that the A Division is "not so hot."

On the more serious side—if such there is—the Camino Lumberjacks and Smith Flat will open the evening with a battle to see which shall play Caldor in the second game of the night, to decide the A Division championship.

The Caldor Girls, having won both ends of the second schedule in the women's league, are undisputed champions in their set.

Former Resident Crash Victim

G. W. Del Carlo Killed As Five Escape Unhurt In Wreck Near Emerald Bay

Funeral services for Mr. Del Carlo will be held Wednesday at 10 o'clock from the Catholic church at Colfax. Interment will be at Colfax. It was announced early this afternoon by Memory Chapel.

Enroute to a lakeshore resort for a week's vacation, G. W. Del Carlo, formerly section foreman for the Southern Pacific Company in Placerville and at Shingle Springs, was killed Sunday morning in an auto accident on state route 89, approximately one-half mile south of Bay View Rest, near Emerald Bay, Lake Tahoe.

Five others in the car escaped without so much as a scratch. The body was brought to Placerville in the care of Coroner A. J. Orelli and funeral arrangements are pending in the care of Memory Chapel. One of the sons of the deceased, Roy Del Carlo, left Placerville Sunday for Merced to return here with his mother and upon their arrival the arrangements for the services may be concluded.

The coroner's office reports that Del Carlo left Auburn about 3:55 Sunday morning in company with Lena Clare Mastrolis, 22, of Auburn, who was driving, his daughter, Doreen, 17, a son, Willie, a nephew, Robert Del Carlo, and a friend, John Carigli.

On a sharp turn near the point indicated, the driver was unable to control the car and as it left the road, Del Carlo jumped. The car rolled over with its five occupants and pinned Del Carlo beneath it, crushing his head. The wreck took place about 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Deceased is survived by his wife, seven children, Andrew, of Roseville; Roy, of Placerville; Leo, of Vallejo; and Leonard, Willie, Doreen and Louise, whose home is with Mrs. Del Carlo, at Merced.

AUGUST MEETING OF COMMERCE CHAMBER IS CANCELED

Secretary Wallace M. Ripley, of the Chamber of Commerce, pointed out Monday morning that although this is the "third Monday of the month," there will be no meeting of the Chamber of Commerce membership tonight.

"The regular August meeting of the membership has been canceled," Mr. Ripley said. "We are all busy on plans for the County Fair and the Studebaker Wheelbarrow Race, and there is little of special importance in addition to that except the state highway commission meeting on August 28 and 29. "A committee is functioning on

Arsonist Goes To San Quentin

Charles Edward McKay Sentenced To Prison For Setting Fires

The second of the recent associates of Worley McMurray, escaped bandit suspect, was headed toward San Quentin prison Monday morning when sentence was passed in Superior Court on Charles Edward McKay.

McKay had pleaded guilty to a charge of arson, admitting setting fires on lands of E. C. Harrington on or about July 1. In passing sentence about July 1. In passing sentence Monday morning, Judge George H. Thompson ordered he be delivered at San Quentin to serve the term prescribed by law.

The information against McKay named McMurray as a defendant, also.

Ray Vincent, recently committed to San Quentin on robbery charges, was also a co-defendant with McMurray.

Officials were looking for McKay and McMurray on the arson charges when the two separated and McMurray, allegedly, became associated with Vincent in a subsequent reign of terror on the south side of the county.

McKay, fleeing this section of the state, was arrested at Eureka on a motor vehicle act charge and was turned over to local authorities upon expiration of his sentence there.

McMurray, arrested with Vincent on July 8, continues at liberty following his escape from custody on July 2.

Robin Godine, rich society girl, falls in love with Cary Craig, who is paying his way through medical school by working for an escort bureau. She hires him to take her about. He secretly loves her but, because of her wealth, hides his feelings. Finally, however, overcoming his scruples, he asks her to marry him, with the understanding that they will wait until he is established as a doctor. Her father, bitterly opposed to her marrying such a poverty-stricken young man, tries without success to break the engagement. Another who wants to break it is Lyriss Moline, singer in a beer parlor owned by Cary's foster father, Jed Prosser. She is in love with Cary and, in a scheme to prevent Robin from marrying him, enlists the aid of Brad Molere, ex-convict. She lures Robin to an apartment in a chloroform and, while she is unconscious, takes pictures of her in Brad Molere's arms. She threatens to use the pictures to ruin Robin unless she gives up Cary.

CHAPTER XXX
ROBIN slowly rose, and said quietly, "Is there a telephone here? I want to call my chauffeur."
"Oh, take it easy," Lyriss said coolly. "We haven't had any sort of visit yet, and I've so much more to say."
"Then, please say it and let me go home," Robin replied curtly.
Lyriss' eyes narrowed. "Listen—do you think you are really in love with Cary?"
"Of course!"
"All right," said Lyriss. "We'll see just how much! Unless you break your engagement to him, a story such as I just outlined will come blazing out in the papers. This will be the gist: 'Robin Godine, while engaged to a poor but fine young doctor, is holding trysts with an ex-convict.'"
"You can't get away with it," Robin scoffed, but she was not nearly so confident as she tried to appear.
"Oh, yes I can!" Lyriss told her. "Now keep still until I finish my story. If that first newspaper yarn doesn't do the trick, there will be another one, accompanied by these pictures, just before you and Cary are to be married. Stop and think—just what would that mean to Cary?"
"He wouldn't believe it!" Robin said defiantly.
"Maybe not," Lyriss agreed. "But the world would — and a young doctor can't afford to be mixed up in a scandal, even indirectly. It would kill his career at the very outset!"

ROBIN stood motionless, the full significance of Lyriss' diabolical scheme sinking in on her. If it had affected her alone, she would have gone on defying Lyriss, confident that Cary would not believe the story. But she had not considered this new angle—the effect on Cary and his career.
Suddenly, she wilted. She sank into a chair.
"Oh, Lyriss," she said desperately. "You — you couldn't do such a thing!"
"I can and I will," Lyriss said coldly. "Unless you promise to give up Cary and never see him again. If you do that, I'll destroy the pictures and films, and no one will ever see them."
"But Lyriss I can't!"
"I thought you said you loved Cary," Lyriss sneered. "If you really love him, you wouldn't hesitate. Do you want to be responsible for wrecking his career?"
"But I . . . I . . ."
"You've only yourself to blame," Lyriss went on. "You've always been out of one escapade into another. That makes it simple for me to put this over. If you hadn't been so foolish . . ."
Lyriss shrugged.
Robin sat silent for a long time, thinking. Lyriss was right — the Situation In Pacific Tense

Dneiper. For the first time, Berlin dispatches mentioned the possibility of a "winter stalemate" on the eastern front.

2. A new German thrust on the northern front against Leningrad was reported by British sources to be developing in Estonia and in the Lake Ilman sector, but London experts were uncertain whether this offensive had or could be developed into a serious threat to Leningrad.

3. U. S. Ambassador Joseph Grew held an unusually long conference with the Japanese foreign minister, Admiral Tetsuro Toyoda, which was reported to be of "utmost importance." Japan prohibited foreigners from leaving the country without special permission, the press denounced Britain, the United States and Russia on charges of "encirclement" of Japan, and fear of a crisis—especially over war shipments to the Soviets—increased.

Churchill was expected to report in a radio speech, probably Tuesday, on his talks with the United States President and to send Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden to Moscow to participate in conferences with Joseph V. Stalin.

Britain had concluded a $40,000,000 credit agreement to facilitate Russian purchases of needed supplies, some of which are en route, and had joined with Moscow in attempting to bolster the near eastern front against Germany by warning Iran to oust most of about 4,000 Nazi technicians.

The warning to Iran was a thinly veiled ultimatum to get rid of Germans in key positions, especially in communications services, on threat of Russian-British action to protect the back door to the Caucasian area. Greatest interest, however, still centered in the possibility of Japanese action that might interfere with American and British war supplies to the Soviets.

in other words

by JOHN CLINTON

I want a tiger! I saw one at the circus the other day, a colossal cat with sleek hide and mad eyes. When he purred he sounded like a Hudson bomber. I want one.

And at that same circus I saw a swell advertisement for Triton Motor Oil. It was a couple of high-wire walkers—you know those guys who skim back and forth on a clothes-line a couple of hundred feet above the ring?

They carry long poles in their hands to balance themselves. And if those poles aren't exactly balanced, they have to hire new acrobats. Well, the engineers at Union Oil may laugh at me, but that's the way it is with the motor in your car.

When it comes from the factory it's perfectly balanced—to the very nth of an inch. Its power, its smoothness, its efficiency all depend on that balance being maintained.

Now if you go and use an oil that forms a lot of carbon, it actually changes the compression ratio and balance of your motor! And you get less and less power and fun out of it.

On the other hand, Triton forms very little carbon of any kind because it's made by Union's patented Propane-Solvent Process. It's 100% pure paraffin-base, the finest kind of lubricant money can buy. So, keep that in mind when you need oil, or if you're going to walk tight rope. All Union Oil stations and dealers carry Triton. Try it, next time!

28 Entries In 'Barrow Race'

Officials of the race include Curt Coppin, clerk of the course; Charles W. Doe, properties; Lloyd Raffetto, entries; Wallace M. Ripley, starter; and H. P. Brown, Roy G. Strum, Dr. Lester B. Rantz, John A. Raffetto and B. E. Larson, judges.

First event of the day will be an obstacle race. The second is a '49er costume race, in which Jim Merryman and John Selleck will officiate as old-time fiddlers, around whom the racers must dance in the course of their contest.

In the main event of the afternoon, Chet Carsten, by virtue of having won the race twice in succession, is a favorite to repeat this year. However, Jack Cummings, of the Bank of America; Bob Dawson, for General Petroleum; Bruce Walton, for the State Box Company, and a number of others seem to give the promise that Carsten will have plenty of competition for top honors this year.

The last two of the three races will be included in the radio broadcast opening at 4 o'clock by direct wire from the fair grounds to Sacramento station KFBK. The broadcast for a half-hour period is arranged with the compliments of the Bank of America.

Around The House

With ANN COMFORT

One of the many interesting houses in our county is the Carpenter House at Diamond Springs. With its broad verandahs, its picket fence in perfect repair, its pine trees, it is one of the places that attracts passing motorists and causes them to say: "I wonder what that place is?"

The Carpenter House as many of our county folk know has a long story. I would like to tell one anecdote told me a short time ago by Mr. Nelson, an old-time resident of Diamond. Before this house became the property of G. C. Carpenter, a Chicago merchant who came to California in 1851 by way of the Isthmus, it belonged to Joshua Yeaton. One night while Joshua Yeaton was in his cups, Carpenter made him an offer for the house and Yeaton said, "Sold." He went home and told his wife: "I've sold the house over our heads." The next morning Carpenter came to ask if the deal still held and the gallant Joshua replied: "If I do business when I'm drunk, it goes as though I had been sober." So the house passed to the Carpenter family.

Carpenter had a fine orchard of apples and pears and a vineyard with 125,000 vines. The brands which he made in the large winery which is still attached to the western part of the house sold for $10,000 a gallon.

Directly across from the Carpenter House were those "clear, sparkling springs" that gave the town its name. Those springs were a favorite stopping place for travelers on the old, Carson emigrant road. As most of you know, it was a group of Missouri emigrants who settled Diamond and when the population reached 1500, a group of citizens aspired to make their town the county seat.

Today the Carpenter House is a fine landmark. With its solid brick walls, its high, airy ceilings, its dignified simplicity, it has a structural integrity that speaks well for our early builders. The venerable fig tree in the east garden, Mrs. Brown, the present owner of the house told me, was planted by Luella Carpenter sixty-five years ago.

This fig tree brings me to fig recipes. Have you tried:

Fig Bread

1 cup sifted white flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 cups sour milk or buttermilk, 2 cups of whole wheat flour, 1 cup chopped walnuts, 1 cup finely shredded figs, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup molasses.

Mix and sift all dry ingredients. Stir in walnuts and figs. Combine sour milk and molasses; add to flour mixture stirring until well mixed. Turn into greased loaf pan and bake in moderate oven, about 1 hour.

A wholesome filling for layer cake is:

Fig Filling

1/2 pound figs, 6 pears cored and pared, 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup water.

Chop figs and pears; add sugar and water and cook until thick stirring occasionally. This may also be used on cup cakes.

A molded salad for bridge luncheon or a Sunday night supper that is sure to go over big is:

Avocado and Fig Mold

1 package lemon-flavored gelatin, 2 cups hot water, 1 avocado, 1 grapefruit, 1 cup whole figs.

Dissolve gelatin according to directions and cool, peel and slice av-

Radio 'Alert' for America

David Sarnoff (left) radio executive, shows New York's Mayor LaGuardia how the new radio alarm, the "alert receiver" works. Easily attached to home radios, the machine has a bell which rings and a light which glows to notify listeners of emergencies, such as air raids should they ever come to the United States.

The American army has grown into a tremendous market for farm products and the office of production management suggests that farmers sell directly to the armed forces.

John A. Martin, an OPM purchasing specialist, warns producers not to wait for the army to come to them. Instead, Martin says you should get acquainted with the commissioned army officer who is in charge of the market center for the army camps in your area. Twenty-nine of these market centers are scattered throughout the country, and each day they buy tremendous quantities of fresh fruits and vegetables, poultry, butter, eggs, butter and cheese. Martin urges the farmers to find out what grades and volume are needed, type of packaging most desired, and the delivery dates.

Purchases are made from the lowest responsible bidder. And the purchases are made quickly, too—sometimes bids are asked, and sales made within a few hours. Deliveries are ocado, peel and section grapefruit. Fresh or canned figs may be used. Arrange fruit in bottom of mold lightly greased with olive oil. Cover with enough gelatin mixture to anchor design and chill until set. Arrange remaining fruit in layers and cover each layer with gelatin mixture. Set in ice box. This may be served as a dessert with whipped cream or cream dressing. This will serve 6.

For a wholesome confection, try: Cinnamon Fig Jibs

To 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar add 1 cup corn syrup and 1/2 cup water. Cook to 285 F. Flavor with cinnamon and fold in 1 cup shredded figs. Pour in very thin sheet on a large greased baking sheet, as candy cools, lift edges and pull as thin as possible. When cold break into irregular pieces. This yields about 1 pound of brittle.

In an old report listing exhibits of the El Dorado County Fair for 1878, I find among the exhibits, tobacco, sorghum, turnips as big as ordinary cantaloupes, grapes the size of walnuts. Exhibits from Coloma boasted 90 varieties of fruit, among which were oranges, persimmons and pomegranates. Says the flowery reporter: "The Goddess Pomona lives in El Dorado!"

sent direct to the army.

From Washington comes word that they're going to turn corn into gunpowder.

Not directly, of course, but the corn will be used to manufacture alcohol that goes into the production of munitions. The corn—a whopping big 20,000,000 bushels of it—will come from the government stocks. The resulting alcohol will take care of a threatened shortage, and at the same time will help the agricultural market.

Besides taking a large amount of the surplus corn off the market, the program will empty storage space that will be needed badly by the coming crop.

Some shorts from the farm front—in Nebraska, they're trying to get farmers to say the word "holstein" as it should be pronounced—with the last syllable pronounced—not "steen"—but "stine," as what you drink beer out of. Bulls are still dangerous animals: They have killed 161 persons in Wisconsin during the last six years. The early crop of commercial Irish potatoes is expected to be about three per cent smaller than last year.

FAIR EXHIBIT TENTS WILL BE LIGHTED FOR WORKERS MONDAY EVENING

Exhibitors at the County Fair, August 22 to 24, who may wish to work on their exhibit installations will find the tents lighted Monday evening, fair officials announced.

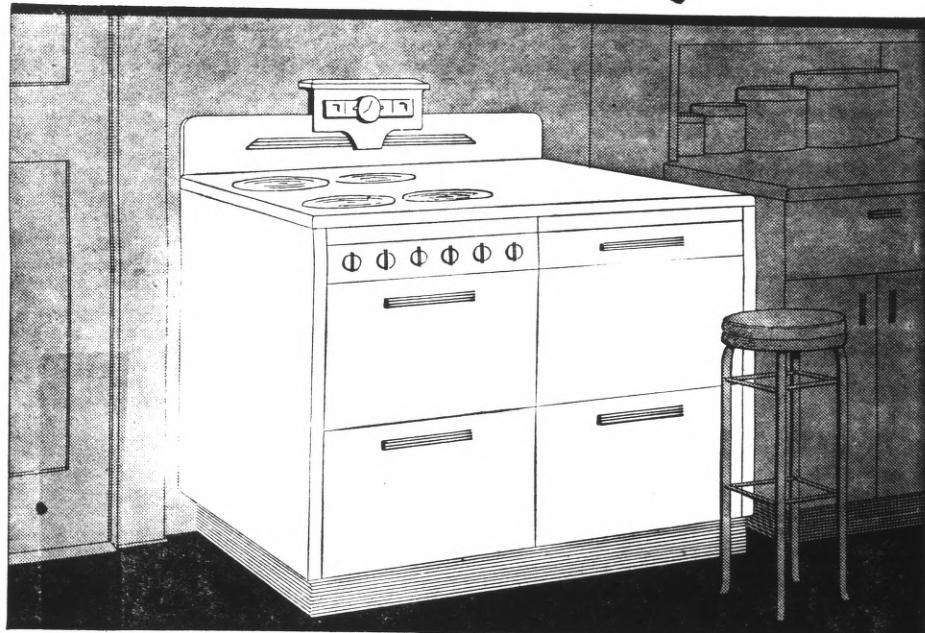

Installation of a number of the community organization booths has begun and fair officials said that it is believed the opportunity to work evenings on the displays may prove to be a convenience to some exhibitors.

Some of the directors of the association had made plans to go to Stockton Monday evening "to have a look" at the San Joaquin County Fair.

Electric Cookery is "CLEAN" as Electric Light

Millions Now Enjoy Electric Ranges!

Have a picture book kitchen, clean and bright and modern. Start right with a modern electric range. Select anyone of the new models from a variety of makes. They are all good ranges. They are all priced reasonably low. And anyone of the new 1941 models will cook with all the speed you would want food to cook.

Then no matter if your kitchen is painted white or some light cheerful color do not worry about the paint getting smudgy and dirty looking in a short time. Your electric range cooks with heat from glowing coils that are clean and dependable as electric light.

Millions of American women now cook the modern electric way. They like the simplicity of operation of the electric range. They like the way the top units come up to cooking speed quickly at the snap of a switch. They like the perfect broiling and roasting in the ovens. They like the automatic time and temperature controls that take care of oven dinners or baking. And they like the economy of electric cooking, too.

Why not cook the modern way... with electricity? Here in California electricity is cheap for cooking. You will be amazed at how little it costs to operate one of the new 1941 electric ranges.

ATTORNEY AND MRS. MAUL ON VACATION DURING ENSUING MONTH

Attorney and Mrs. Thomas Maul left Saturday morning on a month's vacation trip.

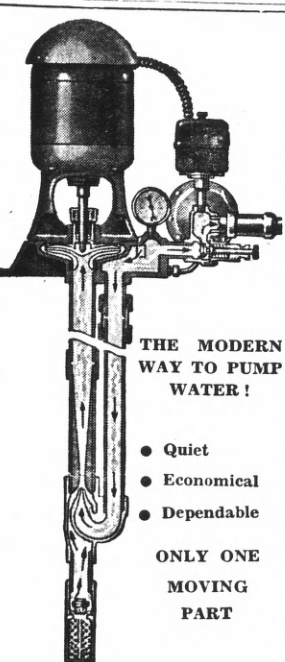

In revealing his vacation plans, Mr. Maul pointed out that he is associated in practice with City Attorney Richard Barry, and that Mr. Barry will be at his law offices daily and will attend to the business of Mr. Maul's clients, as well as his own.

Expecting to return to Placerville about mid-September, Mr. and Mrs. Maul had planned an automobile trip to the Pacific Northwest and Canada, thence across the Idaho pan-handle and on to Yellowstone Park, returning by way of Salt Lake City.
